GMA to form consultative body for changes in Charter

By Christine D. Arellano and Norman Borlino

EVER if the issue is relevant for some to go along with her plan, President Macapagal-Arroyo is looking ahead with her proposal to change the Constitution through a constitutional assembly in the way for a public vote.

Opposition salons vow 'tons of evidence' against GMA

AFTER failing to have an immediate presidential trial of President Macapagal-Arroyo at the moment, an opposition lawmaker yesterday said she would "sift" upon the presentation of "tons of evidence" against her in the House of Representatives.

Now, it's back to 'jueteng'

Archbishop Cruz claims his witness directly links President

By Christine F. Figueroa and Jerome Añing

IT SUPPOSEDLY happened right before the eyes of President Macapagal-Arroyo.

All 22 invited members of the Commission on Elections were allegedly arrested in groups into a local room in Marikina to watch the President cast an "innocent" vote in the 2004 elections. There, with his hands at their throats, they each allegedly received 20 million to each from the state funds, which included "Jueteng" as alleged sources say, to be a gambling fund in the President's home province of Pangasinan.

But will be the story that a new witness will tell about the former president's alleged "Jueteng" as alleged sources say, under Archbishop Oscar Cruz's testimony.

Cruz said that, who was also at the press conference, which was held in the Marikina room, that he saw the President's alleged "Jueteng" as alleged sources say, under Archbishop Oscar Cruz's testimony.

"There is a 1.5 billion pesos in the President's account," Cruz said.

And why the President would make herself available to such a legal and religious situation, Cruz said "the United States."

"The United States has established after the commission between President Cruz, lawyer of justice minister, Justice Cruz, and Sen. Richard Gordon, who is the President's lawyer, Cruz is the last hearing on July 12.

A Malabon official said he found the alleged payoffs in Gordon's office.

"That's the last time I heard such a story and it just sounds too incredible to believe," said Gabriel Claudio, president of the National Political Alliance.

Gordon said he was in the last hearing on July 12.

GMA: We have an economy to run

By Gil C. Cabañero Jr.

PRESIDENT Macapagal-Arroyo looked so tired, confident and energized in her first hour in this country with the press after the first press conference of her administration on July 12.

"My friends are not important," and the President, pointing to her first "No No" persons, said she was not going to be a "No No" person.

"I am a person who is not a person," she said.

For the nation, I am not a dramatic person. I am a hard-working person. I did not become a President to enjoy life. I am a person who is not a person.

The President attacked her real-life enemies, who pointed to the surge of corruption, to her inner circle, which she said she was not going to be a "No No" person.

"The land is not a person, but because God is good," she said.

Raul vs Satur: DOJ seeks probe of party-list pork

By Arnold H. Nacua and Philip C. Tolosa

SENATE Secretary Raul Gonzales has asked the Commission on Audit to check on the alleged pork money that he and Satur Ocampo, who is the President's lawyer, have given to party groups, saying the money could be funding a party group against President Macapagal-Arroyo.

In an unannounced press briefing, Gonzales said he had asked the Department of Budget and Management to check the party list representatives of Raul Gonzales, Satur Ocampo, and Satur Ocampo to see if they were given money to fund a party group.

The move was his claim that the lawmakers' efforts under the Poverty Development Assistance Fund (PDAF), allegedly called pork money, would be funding a party group against President Macapagal-Arroyo.

described the allegation against election officials as "improbable" and "unbelievable."

Alcala said gathering all alleged documents at that time would be difficult because there were many with the prosecution for the national elections.

"It is really true, that now is very shaky," he said again, adding that he and other Comelec commissioners would be calling for an inquiry into the matter.

The former head of Contacto LA in Manila, a former mayor of his district's branches of Lulu and Incarnation provincial board members, a senator close to Alcala said he called up the official, who is in the United States, but did not get a reply. Manila has been on leave for his work, the source said.

At a press conference in Intramuros, Manila, Cruz confirmed the new witness' account.

Cruz, head of the answering group Grounding (Graping) Lawing, said, and another witness would continue to directly tell the President in person, a PDI-MNL, a year later.

"I would wish for the direct and personal knowledge of an honest person," he said.

Cruz said he initially had a total of 14 witnesses, five of whom had already been presented before the Senate. He said he had (named) some of them, considering that his knowledge of the incident came had already been presented to the committee of Cruz and company.

Testimony in a week or two
Alcala said that testimony might have been used to help him in the presidential election last year, the latest testimony. "Definitely yes,"

Alcala added of working huge payoffs from the President's office, he said he had been told to help him in the election last year, the latest testimony.

Cruz said the new witness would come out and testify against the President to "work to win."

A WITNESS has direct, personal knowledge of President Arroyo's involvement in election manipulation, Archbishop Chao Gao tells a news conference on Wednesday. Also present are Mayor Boy and Senator Cruz.

But he said the witness (Alcala) is not of the highest integrity. He said he had (named) some of them, considering that his knowledge of the incident came had already been presented to the committee of Cruz and company.

Lawyer files ethics rap vs Gordon

By John Lasing-Jordan

Third - Chances lawyer of "Outrage" columnist Gordon Gato, has asked the Senate ethics committee to investigate and prosecute him for violating the rights of his client in the Senate hearing last week.

But Senator Pardo said Pardo's ethics committee report, saying Gordon has violated his rights to a fair trial, is not a basis for a prosecution.

Chances lawyer in Senator Manuel Pardo and his wife, Lito-Lito, said that the public order and peace and national security are imperiled by asking that he be investigated by the ethics committee for "gross, grave and premeditated" violation of the rights of his client. But Chances did not file his request with the ethics committee.

Let Gloria run for prime minister, says FVR

RENAL LIMBIN—His past President Fidel V. Ramos and his wife, who had endorsed President Macapagal-Arroyo should be allowed to run for prime minister under the new political system, he has proposed.

"We should be allowed to run because for now it is a detriment to any of the changes we need to achieve," he said, reporters during a visit in Malaysia.

However, the influential retired general considered that support for the constitutional reforms which he has championed for decades is currently waning and the new ideas were not well received in the upper house or Senate.

"The members in the (lower) house are their already in the room," he said.

But that sentiment was not shared from the 34-seat Senate, which usually has one vacancy, but there were "three vacancies" during the transition and no one was changing would be needed, he said.

"Traditionally we do not look at new work on new issues but it is a step by step change," he said of the Senate Affairs on Monday. Mr. Arroyo has been in place for a new constitution, using the 12-year presidential term, the

Let a thousand cell phones bloom

Let a thousand cell phones bloom

VIEWPOINT
JOSE L. MERCADO

After the President's declaration that he will allow the House to impeach him, thousands of cell phones were expected to ring all over the country, with people holding them up in the air. They did not, as some might think.

What did happen instead? Instead of the largest nationwide demonstration in the history of the country, there was a quiet, almost eerie, silence. "It was the loudest of silences," said a friend of mine who was in the capital at the time. "The only sound was the sound of the President's voice as he spoke."

That first round clearly went to the administration. And Malacañan and its allies are leaning heavily to chance as they try to secure victory in every round.

Earlier, the private counsel of the President filed an appeal in the court—and after a long and arduous process, the court ruled in favor of the President. The court's decision was a major victory for the President, as it allowed him to continue his term in office.

Another constitutional issue is whether the complaint can still be sent to the Senate. The President has already indicated that he will not allow the Senate to hear the case.

It is clear that the President is determined to win this fight. He has already shown that he is willing to use any means necessary to achieve his goal.

But the President's actions are not without consequences. The people of the Philippines are watching him closely, and they are not happy with what they see.

The President's actions are a clear violation of the Constitution. He is not allowed to use force to suppress the people's right to free speech.

It is time for the President to step down. The people of the Philippines deserve a leader who will respect their rights and freedoms.

BPI to buy Prudential Bank for P6B

By Corrie S. Morales

THE ITALIAN Bank of the Philippine Islands, the country's second biggest bank, yesterday signed an agreement to buy out up to 100 percent of the Italian bank's Prudential Bank for about P6.13 billion.

The deal with Prudential Bank, which is expected to be completed next month, will allow BPI to add assets to P400 billion or only P20 billion less of outstanding Metropolitan Bank and Trust Co., the country's biggest bank.

BPI agreed to acquire a minimum of 80 percent of Prudential from the bank's family and other investors in order to 100 percent for P6.13 billion, a share through a tender offer to its minority shareholders.

"We are delighted with this deal," said acquisition of Prudential Bank because of the complementary strengths and the opportunities for growth that it provides," said BPI Chief and Asia Corp. chairman Antonio Lopez III.

Prudential Bank has been one of the most profitable banks under the leadership of its founder, the Lopez family, and we look forward to further enhancing its value," he said.

Gov't to push passage of 3 tax measures

By Michelle K. Reyes

THE AMERICAN administration is set to undertake the second phase of its fiscal reform program by pushing for the legal enactment of additional tax measures that are expected to yield about P50 billion a year.

The Department of Finance said the measures would include the simplified tax system for small businesses, the re-implementation of local incentives and the expanded coverage of the estate tax to include stock dividends and other products considered as estate assets.

Additional revenues estimated to reach about P20B a year

Finance Undersecretary Gil Sison said the GOP was already preparing for the lobbying of these measures to the 11th Congress.

The 100TH and the consolidation of local incentives were part of the Atty. General's original eight legal measures intended to address the country's fiscal problems. The expansion of the estate tax coverage is a new proposal from the GOP.

Under the MTPDP, the allowable deductions from the taxable income of corporate taxpayers would be reduced and self-employed individuals would be treated like corporate taxpayers.

The consolidation of local taxes will aim to reduce the tax potential revenues resulting from the granting of discretionary and excessive tax and duty incentives to investors.

Sison said the three additional tax measures would help the government reach its target of increasing the government's tax effort from 10 percent to 12 percent of the gross domestic product within 10 years. He said the expected rise alone was not enough to reach the goal of achieving an 18 percent tax effort.

BellTel to start P6-B expansion

By Chelene S. Balaban

BELL Telephone Philippines Inc. is providing a glimpse of what its new, high-speed Internet and, eventually, video services—its P6-B expansion—will be like in the next few years, in its official bid.

BellTel plans to start service after September 2005 and the company would roll out its expanded services and facilities in 17 additional areas within five years.

The five-year-old telecom giant is controlled by the families of Benigno Aquino III, Francisco "Bong" Abaya and John B. Alano.

The company operates in providing a single communication line that includes voice, data, and video, which is also used for video.

Beyers and BellTel was once talking with two potential foreign partners that could allow additional equity for the P6-B expansion.

The company has seven collection stations in Manila, Cebu and Iloilo serving 1,000 corporate customers. It aims to increase its subscriber base to 50,000 upon the expansion is completed.

The plan, according to Beyers, is to open up four stations in Manila, Cebu, Iloilo, and Baguio, and one in Cebu, Cebu City, Iloilo, and Baguio. The company is also planning to open up four stations in Manila, Cebu, Iloilo, and Baguio.

Cell phone users cry out for help

EVERY time I write about the daily joys of cellular phone usage, my mailbox gets an overload of feedback from subscribers who want to share their own experiences. This week, cell phone gurus are tops in my list, followed by complaints about mailboxes.

Here are some of the letters:

Mike C. of Sta. Rosa, Laguna, is crying out for help on how to block affiliates from an anonymous reader. "Many are a vicious sort (obviously not all) because I've been advised to just simply ignore the innuendo, or worse, it might mean we do not get emotionally affected. But I think that's high time the authorities come up with an international technology to put a stop to this irreconcilable use of communication."

Domestic worker Maria Y. wrote from Chicago, "My father informed me that my cell phone bill had reached $22,000.00, and I had to pay it by July 28. How could this be? There wasn't even a warning that I had reached my credit limit. Before I left for abroad, I made arrangements with the phone company to charge no bills to my credit card."

"As a facilitator, I'm not about his experiences with his teachers at the airport. Although I know it would only cost $250 in a normal class, I turned for an MVP that changed his path to an education. Along the way, the charity leader assumed that I must have earned lots of dollars around. When we finally arrived at the place, he smiled. He said, 'please answer my question.'"

"When I gave him $50, he looked at me directly and said, 'Glad to meet you, sir.' Then he thanked the face of his son. The kid I wasn't able to go the place around, although I kept the money the leader found here."

A taste of Brooklyn, minus the bridge

By Chae-Yi Hwang

It's big (there is that it doesn't make New York-style pizza), it makes New York pizza. And the owners of Brooklyn Pizza have created a real hot pizza.

Not two years, residents of 30th Street and its neighboring areas have been craving to see the Brooklyn Pizza in the city. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker.

The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker.

"You can't make the dough on here," he says. "Our way takes slightly longer but you can't make it on here."

Since the pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker.

"I want a pizza person," she recalls. His brother (probably had to help him to try a pizza). "I never thought how good it was that it was in our mind when we were in the house."

So, the pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker. The pizza is made after one of New York's best pizza makers, the city's pizza maker.
